

Der Drummer.

Who puts out at der pest hotel,
Und takes his oysters on der schell,
Und mit der frauheins cuts a schell?
Der drummer.

Who vas it comes into mine schtore,
Drops down his pundles on der vloer,
Und nefer schtops to shut der door?
Der drummer.

Who takes me py der handt und say:
"Hans Pfeiffer, how you vas to-day?"
Und goer for peennis right away.
Der drummer.

Who shpreads his zamples in a trio,
Und dells me "look, und see how nice!"
Und says I gets "der bottom price?"
Der drummer.

Who says der tings vas eggstra vine—
Yrom Sharmany, ubon der Rhine—
Und sheats me den dimes out of mine?
Der drummer.

Who dells how sheaps der goots vas bought;
Mooch less as vot I gould imbort,
But lets dem go as he vas "short?"
Der drummer.

Who varrant all der goots to suit
Der guessers ubon his route,
Und ven dey goomes dey vas no goot?
Der drummer.

Who comes aroud ven I been euidt,
Drinks up mine bier, und eats mine kraut,
Und kiss Katrins in der mout?
Der drummer.

Who, ven he comes again dis vay,
Vill bear vot Pfeiffer has to say,
Und mit a plack eye goes away?
Der drummer.

The Vagabond Sage.

An old man of very active physiognomy, answering to the name of Jacob Wilmet, was brought to the Police Court. His clothes looked as though they might have been bought second hand in his youthful prime, for they had suffered more from rubs of the world than the proprietor himself.

"What business?"
"None; I'm a traveller."
"A vagabond, perhaps?"
"You are not far wrong. Travellers and vagabonds are about the same thing. The difference is that the latter travel without money and the former without brains."

"Where have you traveled?"
"All over the Continent."
"For what purpose?"
"Observation."
"What have you observed?"
"A little to commend, much to censure and a great deal to laugh at."

"Humph! what do you commend?"
"A handsome woman that will stay at home, an eloquent preacher who will preach short sermons, a good writer that will not write too much, and a fool that has sense enough to hold his tongue."

"What do you censure?"
"A man that marries a girl for her fine clothing, a youth who studies medicine while he has the use of his hands, and the people who will elect a drunkard to office."

"What do you laugh at?"
"I laugh at a man who expects position to command that respect which personal qualifications and qualities do not merit."

He was dismissed.

Don't Begin.

A few years ago I saw a pert little boy washing tobacco leaves, and I asked him—

"What are they good for?"
He replied, "Oh, they're good to make cigars of."

"But are cigars good for anything when they are made?"
"I don't know; I like 'em pretty well."

What a pity a boy of fourteen should like cigars! Tobacco has its uses, since nothing was made in vain, but I don't think smoking or chewing are its legitimate uses. Much can be said against these habits; very little in their favor.

They waste time.
They annoy others.
They waste money.
They injure the health.
They scent the clothing.
They make the breath foul.
They corrupt the atmosphere.

Are not these reasons enough against using tobacco? And the worst of it is they all are true. Few thoughtful, can did persons, though they may themselves be victims of the habit, will deny one of them. Dr. Franklin said he never met a man that used tobacco who advised him to follow his example.

"Use doth breed a habit in a man."
Bad habits are easily formed,
"But when you would strip them,
'Tis being fayed alive."

Therefore, boys, don't learn to smoke. Don't learn to like the useless indulgence.

Keep your lips clean.
Keep yourselves free.
Never begin!

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.
